From Coast to Coast, Immigration Advocates and Impacted Individuals to Celebrate President's Announcement on Executive Action

Local Groups Hold Watch Parties, Rallies and Press Conferences Across the Country in Celebration of the President's Historic Announcement on Immigration

Washington, DC—Today, President Obama will announce his plans to use his existing legal authority to lift the shadow of deportations for millions of undocumented immigrants. This will mark an historic moment in a long fight for immigration reform to address the broken system and rigged enforcement policies that separate families.

Both during tonight's primetime address and tomorrow's speech at Del Sol High School in Las Vegas, NV, from the President, local immigration groups, leaders, and impacted individuals will hold watch parties, rallies and press conferences across the country, where they will react to the news and share their thoughts on what this means going forward.
