Beloved Community,

“Well, I don’t know what will happen now; we’ve got some difficult days ahead. But it really doesn’t matter to me now, because I’ve been to the mountaintop. And I don’t mind. Like anybody, I would like to live a long life — longevity has its place. But I’m not concerned about that now. I just want to do God’s will. ... I’ve seen the Promised Land. I may not get there with you. But I want you to know tonight, that we, as a people, will get to the Promised Land.” Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. – April 3, 1968

Fifty years ago, Martin Luther King, Jr. preached these words on April 3rd, the night before he was assassinated on April 4, 1968 at Mason Temple in Memphis, Tennessee. He was an advocate for the rights, higher wages and better treatment for Black Memphis sanitation workers. This was just one of the many ways he lived out loud the Micah 6:8 passage that calls for justice, kindness and walking with God.

He was committed to be an advocate, doing justice was rooted in his call to serve, loving kindness was rooted in his call driven by an authentic and genuine love. He walked humbly (wisely) with God to ensure a constant connection with Christ. This is the same call that is for all of us. King not only had a dream and prayed, he dedicated his life to efforts and actions that were directed toward bringing this to a reality.

This resource packet was created to share tools and components that you can use in your congregation and community. We invite you to explore the worship, interactive and study resources that are available. The life and legacy of King is one that we can commit to and model throughout the year. There is also information on activities that are taking place around the country to commemorate his life and legacy.

Blessed to be a blessing to you,

Scripture References

Genesis 37:18-20
They saw him in the distance, and before he reached them, they plotted to kill him. They said to each other, “Here comes that dreamer. Now is our chance; let us kill him and throw him into one of these pits and say that a wild beast has devoured him. Then we shall see what will become of his dreams.

Psalms 82:304
Give justice to the weak and the orphan; maintain the right of the afflicted and the destitute. Rescue the weak and the needy, deliver them from the hand of the wicked.

Proverbs 21:3
Do what is right and just; that is more pleasing to God than sacrifice.

Isaiah 1:16-17
Wash yourselves; make yourselves clean; remove the evil of your doings from before my eyes; cease to do evil, learn to do good; seek justice, correct oppression; defend the fatherless, plead for the widow.

Isaiah 51:7
Hearken unto me, you who know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law; fear not the reproach of people, and be not dismayed by their revilings.

Amos 5:21-24
I hate, I despise your feats, and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies. Even though you offer me burnt offerings and cereal offerings, I will not accept them, and the peace offerings of your fatted beasts, I will not look upon. Take away from me the noise of your songs; to the melody of your harps I will not listen. But let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an overflowing stream.

Matthew 5:3-12
Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is the realm of heaven. Blessed are those who mourn for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied. Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the pure of heart, for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness sake, for theirs is the realm of heaven. Blessed are you when others revile you and persecute you and utter all kinds of evil against you falsely on my account Rejoice and be glad for your reward is great in heaven, for so the prophets who were before you were persecuted.

Matthew 5:44
But I say unto you. Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you, and persecute you.

John 15:11-16
These things I have spoken to you, that joy may be in your, and that your joy may be full. This is my commandment, that you love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love has no one than this, that one lay down one’s life for a friend. You are my friends if you do what I command you. No longer do I call you servants, for the servant does not know what the master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all that I have heard for God I have made known to you. You didn’t chose me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit and that your fruit should abide; so whatever you ask God in my name, may it be given to you.

Galatians 3:28
There is neither Jew or Greek, there is neither slave or free, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ.

Colossians 3:12-14
Put on then, as God’s chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience, forbearing one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving one another; as God has forgiven you, so you also must forgive. And above all these put on love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony.

2 Peter 3:13
What we await are new heavens and a new earth where, according to God’s promise, the justice of God will reside.

1 John 4:7-8
Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God; and everyone who loves is born of God and knows God. The one who does not love does not know God, for God is love.
Leader:
Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.’s greatness was anchored in his desire to serve, rooted in his obedience to his call, and guided by his strength to love. Today, we celebrate Dr. King’s personal sacrifice, and we recommit ourselves to his vision for a peaceful world founded on the powerful principles of love, nonviolence, and economic and social justice for the entire human family.

People:
May we nurture Dr. King’s dream, plant it on the hearts and minds of our children, and live out its true meaning in our daily lives.

Leader:
May we, in the spirit of Dr. King, put on the whole armor of God and stand against the unjust actions and unfair policies of oppressive governments; join with our brothers and sisters to expose and reject all false teachings, regardless of their age or institutional cloak; and create new visions for our people.

People:
Dr. King’s faith enabled him to overcome valley experiences while maintaining mountaintop hopes. Likewise, may we work to transform our lives and renew our minds, so that our faith will lead us through our desolate times to heights higher than the reach of spirits of despair, defeat, and unbelief.

Leader:
May we too learn to love with a perfect love, forgive with a healing spirit, and trust and follow the orders of God without falling prey to the spirit of double mindedness.
People:
May the teachings of Dr. King and the sinless life of Christ empower us to reject violence in all forms; in our families, homes, relationships, churches, schools, communities; and on every battlefield.

Leader:
May Dr. King’s spirit infuse us with courage, discipline us with restraint, and equip us with hope.

People:
May we, as the beneficiaries of Dr. King’s drum major leadership, understand that we are responsible for the stewardship of the earth and all that is within it; and that God, one day, will require us to give an accounting.

Leader:
May we not be afraid to seek the guidance of God, incline the ear of the Holy Spirit, and employ the assistance of the angelic host to overcome those negative forces that birth war and not peace.

People:
May we, like Dr. King, act with boldness but walk with humility, knowing that it is the power and grace of God that directs our path and provides all victories.

Leader:
May we dream dreams that have not been dreamt, conquer fears yet to be born, and build communities yet to be conceived.

ALL:
We celebrate, commemorate, and honor the life and works of Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., his family, and those who labored in the vineyard with them. We pray that our words will lift our own hearts and spur us to action, engage the disaffected, and enliven dry bones in broken communities to become shining lights of victory for this present generation and generations to come. Hear our Prayer, Oh God. Amen and Amen.

This is the official litany of the Martin Luther King, Jr., Center for Social Change; prepared and distributed by the Center for use in commemorative services.
To be a Christian without prayer is no more possible than to be alive without breathing.

Darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate; only love can do that.

The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy.

We must develop and maintain the capacity to forgive. He who is devoid of the power to forgive is devoid of the power to love. There is some good in the worst of us and some evil in the best of us. When we discover this, we are less prone to hate our enemies.

Our lives begin to end the day we become silent about things that matter.

Intelligence plus character - that is the goal of true education.

Human progress is neither automatic nor inevitable... Every step toward the goal of justice requires sacrifice, suffering, and struggle; the tireless exertions and passionate concern of dedicated individuals.

Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.

Life's most persistent and urgent question is, 'What are you doing for others?'

The time is always right to do what is right.

Almost always, the creative dedicated minority has made the world better.

The first question which the priest and the Levite asked was: 'If I stop to help this man, what will happen to me?' But... the good Samaritan reversed the question: 'If I do not stop to help this man, what will happen to him?'

Nonviolence is a powerful and just weapon, which cuts without wounding and ennobles the man who wields it. It is a sword that heals.

A nation that continues year after year to spend more money on military defense than on programs of social uplift is approaching spiritual doom.

The function of education is to teach one to think intensively and to think critically.
Resources

The following is a list of resources to assist those who would like to present a unit of study in anticipation of Martin Luther King, Jr., Day. These resources includes plans, activities, printable material, primary source documents, video documentaries, and so on.

Videos, Audio, and/or Interactive Media

- “Why (The King of Love Is Dead)” was written by Nina Simone. In her typical queenly and riveting style, she wrote what many were thinking about but could not eloquently articulate after Dr. King died. [Link to video]
- A pictorial tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. set to the track of “Happy Birthday” by Stevie Wonder. [Link to video]
- For churches and other groups with screens, use images from famous speeches given by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. These can be found by searching the phrase “speeches of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.” on www.google.com.
- This is a wonderful piece to show to your children and youth groups about the journey of the Chicago Children’s Choir as it explored the Civil Rights Movement. [Link to video]
- “A Dream,” by Common and Will.I.Am, from the film Freedom Writers. [Link to video]
- Martin Luther King’s call [Link to video]
- “I Have A Dream,” published by the SALT Project. [Link to video]

Community Day Worship Service:

Plan a “working” MLK Community Day Worship Service. As a prelude to or extension of your worship service, have the entire congregation form small groups to do various community projects. Visit this link — [Link] — to identify local projects that can have a lasting impact in your church community, or your church may choose to develop its own project and register it/them so that other volunteers can find it. From this same link (http://mlkday.gov/plan/actiionsguides/floorplan.php), you can find Action Guides for various types of service projects including: Environmental Stewardship, Disaster Services, Economic Opportunity, Education, Health, and Veterans and Military Families.

Established in 1968 by Mrs. Coretta Scott King, The Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Nonviolent Social Change (“The King Center”) has been a global destination, resource center and community institution for over a quarter century. Nearly a million people each year make pilgrimage to the National Historic Site to learn, be inspired and pay their respects to Dr. King’s legacy. [Link]

Books by Martin Luther King, Jr.

- Strength to Love. New York: Harper & Row Publishers, 1963. This is a collection of Dr. King’s most requested sermons.
- Where Do We Go From Here: Chaos or Community? New York: Harper & Row Publishers, 1967. An assessment of America’s priorities and a warning that they need to be re-ordered.
Activities

Hands together:
Share with children how Dr. King believed in unity and harmony. Make the classic paper chains using black, white, red, yellow, and brown construction paper to represent the various skin tones found across our nation. Show kids the symbolism behind the craft: “Each link represents a hand, and our chain reminds us that Dr. King joined hands with people of all colors when he marched for freedom.” A variation on this theme: Children can trace their own hands, then color them in using different skin-tone shaded crayons.

Living the Dream:
Martin Luther King, Jr. had a dream that people would not be judged by the color of their skin, but the content of their character. Brainstorm and discuss what dreams you have for your home, community and world. Use cloud shaped paper – and write and illustrate the dreams. Create a dream collage. The Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change website includes a section where you can share your dreams and post them on a dream map along with dreams from all over the world. You can also share your dreams online at www.thekingcenter.org/dreams/share

Listening to History:
There is wisdom among us. If there is an elder in your community who lived during the Civil Rights Movement, there is a wealth of wisdom. Assign a team to interview the person, asking them to share their memories and the lessons that they learned. This can be an intergenerational activity, when you have a younger person as the reporter.

Do you want to share activities that you have done within your community to celebrate the life and legacy of Dr. King. Email to ChristianEd@dhm.disciples.org and put MLK Activities in the header.

AGAPE — Overflowing unconditional love for all, including adversaries, needed for nonviolent conflict-resolution. Dr. King called it “love in action... love seeking to preserve and create community...love which is purely spontaneous, unmotivated, groundless and creative.”

AHIMSA — The Hindi word for non-injury, or nonviolence made popular by Gandhi as the central value of his beliefs and leadership.

ARBITRATION — Hearing of a dispute and determining its outcome by a mutually-agreed-upon third party. Can be binding or non-binding.

BELOVED COMMUNITY — Term coined by philosopher Josiah Royce to denote an ideal community, used frequently by Dr. King to describe a society of justice, peace and harmony which can be achieved through nonviolence.

In his sermon at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Ala., on April 2, 1957, Dr. King said, “The aftermath of nonviolence is the creation of the beloved community.”

BOYCOTT — A campaign of withdrawal of support from a company, government or institution which is committing an injustice, such as racial discrimination. As Dr. King said, “There is nothing quite so effective as the refusal to cooperate with the forces and institutions which perpetuate evil in our communities.”

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE — The act of openly disobeying an unjust, immoral or unconstitutional law as a matter of conscience, and accepting the consequences, including submitting to imprisonment if necessary, to protest an injustice.

CONFLICT RESOLUTION — Ending of conflict, disputes or disagreements by nonviolent means with intent to achieve a "win-win" outcome for all parties.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTION — A refusal to participate in military service because of moral beliefs.

CREATIVE TENSION — In his “Letter from Birmingham Jail,” Dr. King said, "Nonviolent direct action seeks to create such a crisis and establish such creative tension that a community that has constantly refused to negotiate is forced to confront the issue...I must confess that I am not afraid of the word, tension. I have earnestly worked and preached against violent tension, but there is a type of constructive tension that is necessary for growth... the purpose of direct action is to create a situation so crisis-packed that it will inevitably open the door to negotiation."

DEMONSTRATIONS — Gatherings and protest activities organized to build support for peace, justice or social reform.

DIRECT ACTION — Nonviolent resistance to injustice. More than 250 forms of nonviolent direct action have been identified, including marches, boycotts, picketing, sit-ins and prayer vigils, to name a few. (see six steps of nonviolence)

FASTING — Refusing to eat as a method of self-purification to be spiritually strengthened for nonviolent action, or as a protest.

GANDHI, MOHANDAS K. (1869-1948) — Leader of India’s nonviolent independence movement, who forced the British to quit India. Dr. King studied Gandhi’s successful campaigns and adapted some of Gandhi’s strategies in the American Civil Rights Movement. As Dr. King said of the role of Gandhi’s teachings in the Civil Rights Movement, “Christ furnished the spirit and motivation, while Gandhi furnished the method.” Dr. King said "Gandhi was the guiding light of our technique for nonviolent social change."

LAWS, JUST VS. UNJUST — A distinction made in deciding to engage in civil disobedience. A just law is created by both a majority and minority, and is binding on both. An unjust law is created by a majority that is binding on the minority, when the minority has no voice in creating the law. Dr. King said, "A just law is a man-made code that squares with moral law or the law of God. An unjust law is a code that is out of harmony with moral law...One who breaks an unjust law must do so openly, lovingly and with a willingness to accept the penalty ."

MASS MARCH — A large number of people walk in a group to a place of symbolic significance to protest an injustice.

MEDIATION — intervention in a dispute by a neutral third party with expertise on a particular issue for the purpose of securing a compromise, an agreement or reconciliation. A mediator can not impose a binding agreement.

MORAL SUASION — Appealing to the moral beliefs of an adversary or the public to convince the adversary to change behavior or attitudes.

NEGOTIATION — Process of discussing, compromising and bargaining with adversaries in good faith to secure a resolution to a conflict and reconciliation of adversaries.
(see six steps of nonviolence)

NONCOOPERATION — Refusal to participate in activities of or cooperate with individuals, governments, institutions, policies or laws that result in violence or injustice.

PACIFISM — A philosophy based on an absolute refusal to engage in violence because it is morally wrong.

PASSIVE RESISTANCE — Challenging an injustice by refusing to support or cooperate with an unjust law, action or policy. The term “passive” is misleading because passive resistance includes pro-active nonviolence, such as marches, boycotts and other forms of active protest.

PERSONAL COMMITMENT — The spiritual and psychological decision to participate in nonviolent action to eliminate an injustice. Prayer, meditation and sometimes fasting are used to deepen one’s spiritual understanding.

PETITION CAMPAIGNS — gathering of massive numbers of signatures in support of or opposed to a policy, proposal or law.

PICKETING — A group of individuals walk with signs bearing protest messages in front of a site where an injustice has been committed.

PURIFICATION — The cleansing of anger, selfishness and violent attitudes from the heart and soul in preparation for a nonviolent struggle. (see six steps of nonviolence)

RECONCILIATION — The end goal of nonviolence. Bringing together of adversaries in a spirit of community after a conflict has been resolved. (see six steps of nonviolence)

REDEMPTIVE SUFFERING — A willingness to accept suffering without seeking revenge or retribution. When an individual or group experiences injustice and abuse for a good cause, it will help produce a greater good.

SATYAGRAHA — Hindi for "soul force," a term coined by Gandhi to emphasize the power of unadorned truth and love in a social struggle.

SAVING FACE — Offering an adversary an alternative course of action which spares him or her embarrassment.

SELECTIVE PATRONAGE — The flip side of a boycott. Making a point of purchasing a product or service from a company that supports justice.

SIT-INS — Tactic of nonviolence in which protesters sit down at the site of an injustice and refuse to move for a specified period of time or until goals are achieved. Examples include Flint, Mich., sit-down strike of 1936-37 in which auto workers sat down on job for 44 days in protest for union recognition and the student sit-ins to desegregate lunch counters in Greensboro, N.C., in 1960.

SIX PRINCIPLES OF NONVIOLENCE — Fundamental tenets of Dr. King’s philosophy of nonviolence described in his first book, “Stride Toward Freedom.” The six principles include: (1.) Nonviolence is not passive, but requires courage; (2.) Nonviolence seeks reconciliation, not defeat of an adversary; (3.) Nonviolent action is directed at eliminating evil, not destroying an evil-doer; (4.) A willingness to accept suffering for the cause, if necessary, but never to inflict it; (5.) A rejection of hatred, animosity or violence of the spirit, as well as refusal to commit physical violence; and (6.) Faith that justice will prevail.

SIX STEPS OF NONVIOLENT SOCIAL CHANGE — A sequential process of nonviolent conflict-resolution and social change based on Dr. King’s teachings. “The Six Steps of Nonviolence” developed by The King Center include: (1.) Information gathering and research to get the facts straight; (2.) Education of adversaries and the public about the facts of the dispute; (3.) Personal Commitment to nonviolent attitudes and action; (4.) Negotiation with adversary in a spirit of goodwill to correct injustice; (5.) Nonviolent direct action, such as marches, boycotts, mass demonstrations, picketing, sit-ins etc., to help persuade or compel adversary to work toward dispute-resolution; (6.) Reconciliation of adversaries in a win-win outcome in establishing a sense of community.

STOCKHOLDER’S CAMPAIGN — Individuals or groups purchases a small amount of stock so they can have introduce resolutions at stockholder meetings, vote as stockholders and lobby corporations to correct an injustice.

STRIKES — Organized withholding of labor to correct injustice.

TEACH-INS — An organized event or series of events, including public hearings, lectures, panel discussions, theatrical presentations, showing of films, role-playing and scenario exercises and other educational techniques, to inform public about a particular issue.

TRADE SANCTIONS — A nation levies import taxes on products from another nation, or bans importation of a nation’s products altogether.

UNCONDITIONAL LOVE — See “AGAPE.”

UNEXPECTED SUFFERING — See REDEMPTIVE SUFFERING.

VIGILS — A form of protest in which individuals and groups stand, sit, walk, or pray at a site linked to an injustice or symbolically associated with principles of freedom, justice or peace.

A Call To Peace and Action

No Justice, No peace; Know Justice, Know Peace” is our rallying cry.

On this day, we, in the spirit of Martin Luther King Jr. call for peace. A peace that is more than the absence of war. We call for a just peace. A peace where all humans have the rights of security, prosperity, good and free education, accessible and plentiful food, clean water and a planet free from disastrous pollution to calamitous climate change.

We call for a just peace. A peace where people are able to resolve conflicts without resorting to violence. A peace committed to understanding, celebrating and learning from difference. A peace grounded in what Dr. King called the Beloved Community.

It takes more than words to bring about peace. It takes action. Action that decreases hostility between people and actions that promote trust so that our words have meaning. Action, must occur within a vision.

We call on ALL people to imagine a world without poverty, hunger and homelessness. Imagine a world where we reject racist ideologies and replace them with an all-inclusive spirit of love for ALL people. Imagine a world where we resolve disputes by peaceful conflict-resolution and true reconciliation. Imagine a world, where love and justice triumph.

No Justice, No peace; Know Justice, Know Peace” is our rallying cry.

But, it will take more than vision to bring peace. We must face the injustices of the past and acknowledge the injustices of the present â€“ no matter how painful. This means we must find a way to talk WITH each other instead of AT each other. It will take all of us searching deep within our own souls, taking what some call the “inward journey of self-reflection.”

It will take all of us to name those things we would rather hide-those things that stop us from being our better selves. We must not only name them, but also begin the process of purging those things that stifle our growth and the growth of others. This will lead us to form and develop communities of understanding that will walk, talk and stand with us. It is in this spirit-with humility and mutuality-that we will come together with one another and build a community of peace and goodwill for all humankind.

No Justice, No peace; Know Justice, Know Peace” is our rallying cry, contributed by: Assistant Professor Andre E. Johnson, Department of communications, University of Memphis
