In order to know our routes, we must know our roots”

This past year I have taken the time to appreciate and reflect on treasures that I purchased during my travels to Ghana. One of my most prized possessions is a handmade Sankofa statue. It is a bird with its head turned backward taking an egg from its back. It expresses the importance of reaching back to knowledge gained in the past and bringing it into the present in order to make positive progress. This reminds me that revisiting the past can inspire and give insight for our future.

February has been designated as African American History month, however I view as a kickoff month to continue this all year long. African American History impacted the history of our world. We are grateful for the African American Disciples who have contributed and impacted our Disciples community and world.

You are invited to continue this study with worship and educational resources. It is our hope that you will share this with your community and congregations beyond the month of February.

Blessed to be a blessing to you,

In Celebration of Black History

All: “God of our weary years, God of our silent tears, Thou who has brought us thus far on the way. Thou who hast by thy might led us into the light keep us forever in Thy path we pray.”

Leader: Even as the worlds were formed, continents named, oceans separated, and your plan for mankind began to unfold, you had us on your mind.

People: Thank you, Gracious Lord, for including us in your divine plan.

Leader: When you decided to perfectly place man in your world, you chose to place him in our Motherland.

People: Thank you, Gracious Lord, for including us in your divine plan.

Leader: Throughout Holy Scripture and throughout our history, we have witnessed your keeping power and we have been recipients of your love and grace.

People: Thank you, Gracious Lord, for including us in your divine plan.

Leader: We shall ever be mindful of how you brought us together after the middle passage, delivered us from the chains of slavery, and carried us through the civil rights movement.

People: May we always remember your love towards us, O God.

Leader: We thank you, dear Savior, for the gifts, talents, uniqueness, and cultural blessings you have poured out upon our people.

People: May we always appreciate the blessings you have bestowed upon us, O God.

Leader: We thank you for our mathematic, scientific, and literary genius. We thank you jazz, gospel, and the blues. We thank you for beautiful locks of hair and beautiful shades and complexions of skin, and even for soul-food.

People: May we always appreciate our unique beauty and giftedness, O God.

Leader: We thank you for the wisdom, strength, and determination we learned from our ancestors and for the blessings and love of family, O God.

All: And we stand today, O God, as a corporate family in love to remember, reflect, honor, and celebrate the heritage, history, and legacy you have given to us. And we ask that you, O Lord, will keep us forever in thy path, we pray. Amen.

ASALH - Established on September 9, 1915 by Dr. Carter G. Woodson, ASALH (Association for the Study of African American Life and History) are the Founders of Black History Month and carry forth the work of the founder, the Father of Black History. ASALH continues his legacy of speaking a fundamental truth to the world—that Africans and peoples of African descent are makers of history and co-workers in what W. E. B. Du Bois called, “The Kingdom of Culture.” ASALH’s mission is to create and disseminate knowledge about Black History, to be, in short, the nexus between the Ivory Tower and the global public. We labor in the service of Blacks and all humanity. www.asalh.org

I Have A Dream -- This poetic and provocative short film has been created to inspire communities to ask the question: how far have we come on the journey to social justice and what must be done to achieve the dream King so eloquently articulated in 1963? For Loves Sake is a book by The Rev. John Foulkes. Published by the National Convocation and available for sale through GWD Ministries at norman.reed@att.net.
Lift every voice and sing, till earth and heaven ring. Ring with the harmonies of liberty; Let our rejoicing rise high as the listening skies, Let it resound loud as the rolling sea.

Sing a song full of the faith that the dark past has taught us, Sing a song full of the hope that the present has brought us; facing the rising sun of our new day begun, let us march on till victory is won.

Stony the road we trod, bitter the chastening rod, felt in the days when hope unborn had died; yet with a steady beat, have not our weary feet come to the place for which our fathers died?

We have come over a way that with tears have been watered, we have come, treading our path through the blood of the slaughtered, out from the gloomy past, till now we stand at last where the white gleam of our bright star is cast.

God of our weary years, God of our silent tears, thou who hast brought us thus far on the way; thou who hast by thy might led us into the light, keep us forever in the path, we pray.

Lest our feet stray from the places, our God, where we met thee; lest our hearts drunk with the wine of the world, we forget thee, shadowed beneath thy hand, may we forever stand, true to our God, true to our native land.

Augusta Savage’s sculpture Lift Every Voice and Sing, or The Harp created in 1939 a year after James Weldon Johnson passed. Lift Ev’ry Voice and Sing also referred to as "Black National Anthem" is a song written as a poem by Johnson in 1899 and set to music by his brother John Rosamond Johnson in 1900.
